

ShastaDefense.com
Concealed Weapon Training Classes

AWARENESS AND CODE WORD PHRASES

By: A. Nathan Zelif, Attorney at Law (1)
May 21, 2018

You are at the shopping mall, and see three suspicious looking men entering the area where you and your family are located. They start to spread out, but are maintaining eye contact with each other. Each has a large back pack, and each is wearing a long jacket (clothing is bulky). It doesn't look right to you. It is 95°F outside. What are you going to do? What is your plan? Oh, you don't want to be judgmental? Then stop reading. The police can locate and pick up your body parts later.

In today's environment, you can expect that the combined use of bombs and guns will become more of the trend in mass public attacks.

Thus, if you are in public and there is a mass shooting, be prepared for the bomb blast. This may be followed with subsequent detonations used to kill or injure first responders (including you, if you jump in to help out). On the other hand, if you and your family survive a bomb attack, then you must not only be on the alert for subsequent detonations, but also for attackers using guns to kill the survivors attempting to evacuate. Possibly, vehicles (containing explosives) will be used to run over the survivors as they run out into the parking lot.

If you see a suspicious person (persons) or package, then LEAVE THE AREA. Distance and Cover / Protective Shielding are your defense.

CODE WORD PHRASE:

One aspect of your plan may be to have a pre-set CODE WORD PHRASE to alert your family members that you have seen a potential danger and "we need to get out of here now and/or seek cover / protective shielding". You can be low key. For example, assume the parents of both you and your spouse are deceased. Then your code phrase could be - "we need to call my dad". Or, if you have children - "we need to call grandma". Such phrases would never come up in normal conversation.

Thus, if you were in a public environment and determined there was a potential danger, you might turn to your spouse and say "we need to call my dad". You must practice so that there is no discussion and no questions of - "why?" The response would merely be that your group immediately stops what they were doing; increases their awareness level; and then leaves the area or gets behind cover / protective shielding. However, on the way out, you must be alert for the potential dangers of other terrorist operators, and/or pre-planted bombs or devices (which could be hidden in any object or on persons). Think about which exits to use. High traffic ingress and egress points may have been targeted by the terrorist killers, as part of their plan.

If it turns out to be a false alarm, then so be it. I would rather leave the mall with my family, and be at a safe location and distance, than "wish" I had just gotten out. Once at a safe location and distance, then call the police.

Don't hang around to see what's happening, or be the "hero". If you do decide to "stop" the terrorists, not all may go as planned. You might shoot the terrorist with the result that the bomb explodes. Or, you shoot the terrorist in the head (medulla oblongata), with the result that the dead man switch he is holding activates the bomb. Or, you shoot what you thought was a terrorist, but it turns out he wasn't. Maybe he was just a moron having "fun". Maybe you are killed and your family is now without a father or mother. Or, potentially, you are not dead, but rather a quadriplegic. A point for consideration is that as a CCW carrier, your primary duty (in this situation) is the safety of your family and you. It is sad, but our own political “leaders” have, and continue to facilitate the invasion of our country by these enemies. Their barbaric and anti Christian foundations are seeping into and destroying the fabric of our American culture. They are, in fact - “fundamentally transforming the United States of America”. The acts of these terrorists and politicians are nothing short of a joint criminal enterprise, and treason.

MEDICAL TRAINING:

As part of your common sense preparedness, take an emergency medical course with your family. Learn how to stop bleeding, apply a tourniquet, and treat severe injuries. Know how to use a pressure bandage. Know how to treat penetration wounds, burns, head injuries, and other battlefield type wounds. When the police arrive on scene, they didn’t come to stop you from bleeding out. That’s up to you. And, when the “time” comes, you won’t have much.

End Notes:

(1) A. Nathan Zeff is a California Attorney at Law. He is also a Certified NRA Pistol Instructor, Certified NRA Rifle Instructor; Certified NRA Range Safety Officer; Certified NRA Personal Protection in the Home Instructor; and Approved Firearms Instructor for CCW instruction classes required for original and renewal permit applications in Shasta County and Tehama Counties.